Commission timetable set

The Glacier County Study Commission will meet today (March 20) at 7 p.m. in the Glacier County Courthouse.

The commission, which recently released its tentative schedule for completing its study of county government, plans to begin interviewing elected county officials.

The timetable released by the commission calls for beginning to receive reports from county departments in March, interviewing department heads and submitting final budget for 1986 in April, continuing to interview employees in May, final budget in June, reviewing material and interview notes in July, research material and prepare for public hearings in August, public hearings in September and October, begin tentative report in November and December.

The 1986 tentative schedule includes work on the report and preparing for public hearings in January, public hearings on final report in February and March, begin final report in June, complete and print final report in July, have final report available for distribution in August, be available for explanations of final report to voters in September, prepare for election and vote on proposed recommendations in October and be ready for the vote in November.
